DEAD.—James W. Staton, Past Grand Master of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Kentucky, and Past Grand High Priest of the Grand Chapter of Kentucky, died at Brookville, Bracken county, Saturday morning. Death resulted from a stroke of paralysis sustained on June 10 at the banquet following the dedicatory exercises attending the laying of the corner stone of the new court house in this city. Mr. Staton had just responded to a toast, when he suffered the stroke. He was taken to Lexington and then to his home.

HEAVY RAIN.—At 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon the heaviest rain known to the oldest citizens fell at Mt. Sterling. Main and Bank streets became a mighty stream and ran knee-deep to horses and pavements were overflowed. Water stood six inches in the pass, stock and binding rooms of the Advocate Publishing Company, causing considerable damage. Streams throughout Montgomery county were out of their banks, and in some parts of the county growing crops were blown flat.

A CORRECTION.—We made an item in Friday's paper about one of the salesmen of The Power Grocery Co. getting a trip to New York for selling more goods during the past six months than any other salesman in their employ. We got the item from the Richmond Register and supposed it was correct. Mr. H. A. Power informs us that it is untrue in every respect. The Power Grocery Co. has made no proposition of that kind and the matter of amount of each man's sales is strictly confidential. No salesman in its employ knows anything about amount of goods other salesmen are selling.

WHAT OUR POETS SAY.

The Carpenter-Bird.

There is a cunning carpenter who's busy
in our tree,
Who's making him a house to hold his tiny family,
Who's finishing it up for them all tidy and all trim.
Hark! Don't you hear his hammer on the old dead limb?
He must be much in earnest, for he works with such a will;
I doubt if any carpenter can show a greater skill,
Or toil with blither cheer until the day grows dim.
With the "tap, tap," of his hammer on the
old dead limb!
Oh, can you not imagine how his heart
with pride will stir
When he gives a building lesson to each little carpenter?
I know it is this thought that seems to bubble and to brim
Whenever I hear his hammer on the old dead limb!
—Clinton Scollard, in Youth's Companion.

To the Summer Winds.

Blow in, oh, winds, from summer banks
of violets dripping dew,
And whisper all the secrets the summer
brings to you;
From groves where twilight shines
On honeysuckle vines,
And wildwood vineyards reeling with ripening muscadines!
Blow in, oh, winds, from meadows green,
where soft the moonlight dwells,
And waft us dream-sweet echoes of tink-
ling cattle bells;
From rivers cool and deep
That seaward sing and sweep,
And rills that ripple sunshine and rock
the flowers to sleep!
Blow in, oh, winds, with blessing for all
the stormy years,
And be your breath the breath of Love, in light that shines through tears!
And blow the blossoms sweet
From many a dim retreat,
And twine them in Love's tresses, and lay them at Love's feet!
—F. L. Stanton, in Atlanta Constitution.

A Diagnosis.

De trouble's gwine to stah agin'; I feels it comin' on.
Es gwine to get to loafin' till de daylight's clean done gone.
Y's gwinter hab dem symptoms dat will turn me deathly sick
When I gets in reachin' distance of a shovel or a pick.
I know jes' what de matter is; I knows it right and plain.
De lazy germ has settled in my system once again.

Dat's de mos' persistent microbe in de tribe,
it pears to me.
When he gets you, dar ain' nuffin' dat will ever set you free;
You may think you has him conquered, but when spring is shinin' bright
He ties up all yoh energies, an' ties 'em good an' tight.
I is facin' my misfortune; it's no use to kick an' squirm.
'Cause dar's nuffin' gwinter cure you when you gits dat lazy germ.
—Washington Star.

Joy in Work.

In her workshop Nature stands,
Busy with her artist hands,
Shaping for her own delight
Things that ravish sense and sight.
Forth they go, her children all;
And their happy looks recall,
As they deck the tasteful earth,
How love and joy were at their birth.
We must stamp that trade-mark, too,
On each bit of work we do;
And love of all we can create
Supplant the drudgery of hate.
Use in beauty, joy in work,
Pride that will not stoop to shirk,
Conscience that sustains the pride—
These let us scatter far and wide.
Till at last in fellowship
We forget the master's whip,
And join with ant and bird and corn
In hailing every work day morn.
—Ernest Crosby, in the Craftsman.

'Taint No Use Mopin'.

Doan go groppin' in de gloom,
Come right out to whar de moon
Shines bright on Br'er Coon,
'Taint no use in mopin'.
Git out whar de sunshine plays,
Soak yo' hide full of it's rays
Doan hunt out de rainy days,
'Taint no use in mopin'.
Bettah suah fo' great and small
Ef dar was no gloom at all
As it were befoh de fall,
In de sunshine loafin'.
But de Lawd is just and true,
He'll take care of me an' yo',
Nothin' in dis feelin' blue,
Ain't no time fo' mopin'.
TOM J. NICHOLL.

Worth While.

It's worth the going off to town
And staying there all day;
To see you just come flyin' down
The pleasant homeward way;
To see your curls float in the breeze
And hear your laughter glad,
And feel the glad ecstatic squeeze
You give home-coming dad.
To know that 'gainst a window pane
A childish face is pressed;
To know blue eyes watch down the lane
As sun goes down the west;
Aye, all the weary toilsome day
Is worth while for the glad
We feel that patter down the way
A-hurry to meet dad.
—J. M. Lewis, in Houston Post.

Don't Forget.

In the petty cares and trials
That perplex us day by day;
Mid the toils and self-denials
We encounter in our way;
When we feel our patience failing,
And our courage almost gone,
Two things still we'll find availing—
Keeping sweet and holding on.
Though we look through tears of sorrow
Back o'er yesterdays of pain,
Farther on there waits a morrow,
When the sun will shine again,
And beneath its smile of favor
We may think of victories won
Humbly trusting in our Saviour,
Keeping sweet and holding on.
—Ida M. Budd, in Ram's Horn.

Until We Meet Again.

And until then, brave soul, farewell,
I cannot think that what befell
Thy mortal frame must be the end
Of thee, my best beloved friend.
Yes, we shall meet again, or life
Were but an idle, foolish strife,
And death were what we most should prize.
Both summer fields and winter skies,
Repeat again:
Auf wiedersehen.
—Rev. Frederic Rowland Marvin, D. D., in
N. Y. Observer.

In the Garden.

I know a garden that is fair,
And often as I pass
I see a winsome maiden there
And hear her sigh: "Alas!"
She turns to smile half pityingly,
And thrills me with her glance;
The garden is my memory,
And she my first romance.
—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

TRAFFIC AND TRACTION.

J. T. Tatlow, John Wharton, George Banks, F. T. Dale and H. O'Brien, officials of the Lancashire and Yorkshire railway of England, are in this country and will make extended inspection of American railroads.

A locomotive with 5,000 square feet of heating surface, when working at maximum power will evaporate about 75,000 pounds of water an hour, which represents a coal consumption of about 10,700 pounds, or more than five tons.

The Ottoman Baghdad Railway company has been organized with a capital of $3,000,000 to build a railway from Konia, the present terminus of the German railway in Turkey, to Baghdad and Bassora. The concession for the railway was obtained by Germany, but according to an announcement made April 13th, it is to be jointly controlled by that country, England and France.

Passengers through the tunnel to be constructed under the East river, between New York and Brooklyn, will enjoy one of the greatest "coasts" in the world. Although the cars which are run through the tunnel will be started by electricity, the most of the trip will be made by gravity. The speed attained at the bottom of the grade—a mile a minute is expected—will carry the car far up the slope on the other side. The coasters will not have to drag the double-runner back.

In a certain office at an Australian railway station there may have been seen a very long list of names of women who have at various times begged the booking clerks to let them have, without payment, tickets to various places. They have forgotten their purses, or lost them, or spent their last penny on a new pair of gloves, and various reasons. They will call the very next day and refund the money without fail. But there the names and addresses lie, with the amount of the borrowed money written opposite.

AMONG THE CUBANS.

The highest ambition of a Cuban, apparently, is to wear a uniform. Men in uniform are proud of it, and they always try to look neat and pretty. It is said that the fire department, or bomberos, is the most sought after service in the island.

When one buys a cigar in Havana a box of wax vestas is given to him. It is a snare and a fraud. The box is the size of the usual vesta box, but it has a false bottom two-thirds of the way from its real bottom, and it only holds a third of the number of matches one usually finds in such a box.

The presiding officers of the Cuban deliberative bodies use a bell instead of a gavel to preserve order. President Portuondo, of the lower house, has two bells—one a silver tea bell, which he rings by waving it in the air; the other a bicycle bell mounted on two uprights, which he rings by whirling it around.

A Cuban room less than 40 feet square is a mean affair. A Cuban who once lived in New York now occupies a house in which the dining room, one of the 20 mammoth rooms, is twice as large as his whole apartment on West Sixty-fourth street was. He confesses that sometimes he feels like screening off a corner ten feet square, and recalling in it the days when he was in the "states."

A luckless American who needed a trunk strap produced the impression on the Havana merchants of needing some shoe laces the other day, and in all the shops where he sought trunk straps enthusiastic clerks worked themselves hot trying to find a pair of shoe laces which would suit the senior. Finally the American went to a harness shop and there found what he wanted. But the English-speaking clerk in this shop would not wait on him, because another clerk was learning English and wanted the practice.

WHAT WOMEN SAY AND DO.

Mrs. Emma Stuckman, of Napanee, Ind., has taught school for 32 years, having begun teaching when she was but 14, and expects to enter upon another term next September.

Queen Alexandra does not think women should smoke cigarettes and occasionally she expresses her opinion on the subject. Some ladies of the court were discussing cigarettes recently, when her majesty said: "I have noticed that men who smoke generally say they would leave off if they were not slaves to the habit. It seems to me extraordinary that women, who are continually adopting new fashions, should deliberately become slaves of one that seemingly cannot be laid aside."

It is pointed out that Miss Marie Corelli, Miss Ellen Terry and Lady Colin Campbell have waited in vain for masculine assistance in their effort to keep the little ancient houses in Stratford-on-Avon, on the site of the proposed Carnegie library, standing. These ladies have written to the English press unsupported and no man has come forward. "Mr. Carnegie, with a brand new public library, and the mayor of the town bent on pleasing Mr. Carnegie, are apparently to have their unwelcome way," observes the London Chronicle.

The new Lady Yarmouth, now on her way to England, carries with her an accent to which she was almost a total stranger a couple of months ago. The former Miss Thaw, born in Pittsburgh, used to speak like the average girl from the west or middle west, but his lordship has changed all that. Under his tutelage Lady Thaw has acquired an accent which is said to be an excellent imitation of that commonly heard in London drawing-rooms, so that her new acquaintances there will be only reminded of her American origin occasionally.

What Have We Done To-day?
We shall do so much in the years to come,
But what have we done to-day?
We shall give our gold in a princely sum,
But what did we give to-day?
We shall lift the heart and dry the tear,
We shall plant a hope in the place of fear,
We shall speak the words of love and cheer,
But what did we speak to-day?

We shall be so kind in the after-while,
But what have we been to-day?
We shall bring to each lonely life a smile,
But what have we brought to-day?
We shall give to truth a grander birth,
And to steadfast faith a deeper worth,
We shall feed the hungering souls of earth,
But whom have we fed to-day?

We shall reap such joys in the by and by,
But what have we sown to-day?
We shall build us mansions in the sky,
But what have we built to-day?
The sweet in idle dreams to bask,
But here and now do we our task?
Yes, this is the thing our souls must ask:
"What have we done to-day?"
—Nixon Waterman, in Cleveland Leader.

ON HAVANA'S STREETS.

To call a coach in Havana one stands on the curb, hisses with all his might and waves his right hand with the same motion he employs to brush away an annoying fly. In New York the cab driver who witnessed the performance would take it for granted that he was being waved away and hissed.

Cuban boys may be seen at play daily at a game which is so much like the American "duck-on-a-rock" that it must be its first cousin. One stone is poised on a large one, and the players attempt to knock it off with other stones from a distance. The boy who is "it" must replace the stone when it is knocked off and tag one of the other players before he can run a certain distance.

Although the electric cars offer a quicker, smoother and much more pleasant way of moving about, the residents of Havana cling to the old-fashioned busses which were once the only public conveyances in the streets, and the bus patronage is apparently as good as ever it was. The busses take advantage of the car tracks for a road, however, and their passengers benefit from the electric line indirectly, if they do scorn the cars. The fare is the same in both.

Havana is as clean as intelligent sanitary supervision can make it. The prominent streets are clean, the court-yards are clean, and the walks are clean. A bad smell is practically unknown in the streets. The street cleaners, most of them in white, are at work day and night. They wake one up cleaning, and they lull him to sleep cleaning. Havana was not cleaner under the American military government than it is to-day. The street cleaning costs more than any other department of the city government.

The Tail and the Hide.

Emigrants from the continent of Europe introduced oxtail soup into England in the sixteenth century. Before their arrival the London butchers sold their bullocks' hides with the tails on. The tails were thrown away and wasted, but the refugees obtained them for next to nothing and made soup of them.

Small patches of doubtful crops call for much work and little pay.

IMPROVING PASTURES.

It Can Be Done Without Much Expense If the System Here Described Is Carried Out.

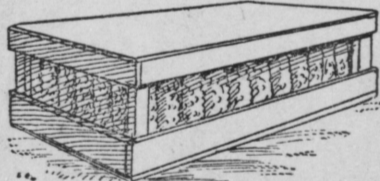

Very few pastures, compared with the total number, supply anything like the feed that they would if given proper care. With the increasing difficulty of obtaining good farm help, the importance of a good pasture is made even greater than in the past. There are three general causes of unproductive pastures, two of which should be looked after at once. They are too close grazing of the pasture, a poor stand of pasture plants and a failure to keep down the weeds that ought not to take up the moisture and plant food that should go to make pasture, but which by their rank and overshadowing growth tend to smother out the valuable plants. The first cause is often responsible for the other two. By continued close cropping the plants are weakened in vitality and a severe dry, hot spell of weather in the summer or cold with or without a covering of snow in winter results in the death of many of the plants. Even with a fall of snow a field eaten close and smooth is apt to be swept here and the crowns of the plants left exposed. The first thing that should be done now, before the ground gets settled and hard to work up, is to go over and thoroughly disc some grass and clover seed into all thin patches. Oftentimes it is well to add some oats or other small grain that will grow up and serve as a protection for the more delicate plants while they are getting a start. This growth will also add materially to the pasture supply while the clover and grass are obtaining a foothold. The next step toward increasing the productiveness of the pastures is to arrange to keep the stock off from them until the grass gets a good start. If these plants are kept grazed right to the crown they are so weakened as to make but a feeble growth and the amount of pasture produced will be small. Most plants would be killed if never allowed to accumulate any more leaf surface than is possible with the plants in the majority of pastures. Then be careful also to not graze too closely the latter part of the season; allow sufficient development of foliage to store up in the roots a good supply of nourishment for starting them off early and vigorously another spring. Grow some soiling crop with which to supplement the pastures this season if necessary in order to do this. With such treatment you will be surprised how much earlier your pastures will come on and how much greater the supply of feed they will furnish. — Prairie Farmer.

SHIPPING SEED CORN.

Although Seemingly a Small Problem, Yet It Is One That Has Puzzled Many Farmers.

Corn planters should buy their seed corn in the ear and refuse to buy it in any other way. This is the largest shipping point for seed corn in the United States, not only for the retail trade, but also wholesale to seedmen. If some F. & H. readers could see the "seed corn" that is shipped from here in earload lots by seedmen to use in their trade (shelled of course) you would open your eyes.

The only way to pick out seed in the ear, as any farmer will admit, but when it comes shelled, how are you going to tell how it was picked out, by hand or with a scoop shovel? If you insist on buying in the ear, it enforces an honest deal, for you can see what you are getting. If the seedman really has good corn, he will be glad to ship it that way, for he can get the credit at once for having something fine.

The only trouble is in the shipping, and I confess it puzzled me for some time. I tried sacks, but the railroad men simply pounded the life out of them, even when each ear was wrapped in paper, and they arrived all in a mass. A box or barrel was nearly as bad. After some experimenting, I tried shipping in the crate. It holds or was meant to hold 72 pounds net, a good big bushel, but I find they often overrun and some weigh as high as 77 net. The top is made of five-eighths box lumber, the corners of two by two elm and the slats of one by three hard pine, dressed. The ears are put in from one side, or edge rather, and are laid in "heads and tails" so they will fit tight. The corn is left rounded up at the side and when the last two slats are nailed on it tightens the corn like heading a barrel. I have shipped corn hundreds of miles in them and it has always arrived in perfect condition. The corn shows on every side and a card on each side calls attention to the fact that it is "real seed corn." There is no patent in it.—Henry Field, in Farm and Home.

Don't get the idea into your head that anything is good enough for a hog. The hog is a good friend, and should be treated as such.—Prairie Farmer.

THE BROWNLOW BILL.

State Legislators Like the Measure and Think It Will Solve the Road Question.

Congressman Brownlow, of Tennessee, says that his good roads bill is the most popular measure introduced in congress since the civil war. He says that even the democratic legislature of his own state has endorsed it, and that the legislatures of Minnesota, Missouri, Alabama and New Mexico have taken similar action; and that he believes the bill will be endorsed by the legislature of every state in the union, if that is necessary, in order to press upon congress the importance of the measure. The following is a copy of the resolution as adopted by the legislature of Minnesota:

"Whereas, the burden of improving and maintaining our highways according to the general prevailing system in this country rests entirely upon the agricultural lands and people living in the rural districts, and

"Whereas, the state-aid plan for constructing highways, as practiced in the states of New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts, has proven satisfactory in its operation, and has offered a partial solution of the road question in that it distributes this burden of cost so that one-half is paid out of a general fund supplied by the state, and

"Whereas, it is desirable to extend this principle of cooperation and distribution of the burden of cost to a still greater extent, so that the government of the United States shall bear a share of the cost of construction to be paid out of the general revenues of the United States, and

"Whereas, one-half of said revenues, aggregating during the last two years $1,000,000 per annum, is derived from the agricultural states and rural districts, while only ten per cent. of the total amount is appropriated by congress for the use of said agricultural states and districts, while 90 per cent. is appropriated for public buildings and other uses pertaining to great cities, and

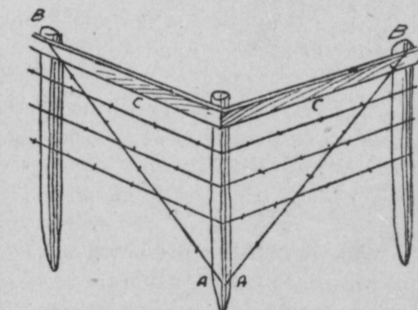

"Whereas, Hon. Walter P. Brownlow, member of congress from Tennessee, has introduced a bill in the United States house of representatives, providing for a system of national, state and local cooperation in the permanent improvement of the public highways, according to the provisions of which the sum of $20,000,000 is appropriated, and the United States government is to pay one-half of the cost of improving any public highway when requested so to do by, and in cooperation with, any state or civil subdivision thereof; therefore, be it

"Resolved by the general assembly of the state of Minnesota, that we hereby heartily endorse said Brownlow bill, and recommend its passage by congress, and that we request the representatives from the state of Minnesota in congress, and instruct the United States senators from this state, to vote and support said bill."

BRACING CORNER POSTS.

The Device Here Described Is Designed by Its Inventor as Superior in Every Way.

I have used several methods, but have discarded all of them for the one illustrated herewith. I regard it as being superior in every way. It is thoroughly effective, is easily made, is neat and wholly devoid of dangerous features. It is made as follows:

KEEPS POSTS FROM SAGGING.

Drive or set the corner post and four to eight feet from it on each side put an additional post. Put on stay-wires first from bottom of corner post to top of brace posts and after drawing them tight, staple securely in position. Next nail on six-inch fence boards or poles at top so as to leave the stay wires perfectly tight. It is then ready for the wires and if it has been well made the corner post will never pull up.—Z. T. Russell, in Orange Judd Farmer.

Scarcity of Cotton Seed.

It is estimated that about three-fourths of the cotton-seed product mills of Texas have shut down on account of the scarcity of the seed. The mills have been paying from eight to ten dollars per ton for the late pickings; but it is of poor quality and will make inferior stock. In spite of poorer quality they expect to get higher prices for the products, however, on account of the scarcity of the seed. Although a little cotton is opening, most of the bolls that have been hanging on the stalks have rotted; and there is no prospect of further receipts of seed of good quality. There is no prospect that feeders will be able to get their cotton-seed meal at any better figures during the next 12 months.

Best Is None Too Good.

It pays to have a good dairy barn. Money is well invested in such an improvement. We have known farmers that were well-to-do and yet all their lives never owned a decent barn for the housing of their dairy cows. Barns dark in summer and cold in winter are not places in which the cows can be comfortable or their keepers happy while they are working around them.—Farmers' Review.

SUMMER HOSIERY.

Being direct importers, paying no middle profits, we are able to give our customers the most modest prices in hosiery. Another advantage is that we always have the very latest styles—a very great consideration as the styles change in hosiery as often as in millinery.

Gov. Beckham's Statement.

G. v. Beckham Friday night gave out a lengthy statement regarding the steps he has taken toward the suppression of lawlessness in Breathitt county. He explains that his powers are limited by the Constitution and the statutes, but says he has devoted careful thought to the situation and has left undone nothing that would tend to the restoration of law and order. He says he has no right to declare martial law or to remove Judges. While expressing confidence in Judge Redwine, he says he urged him to vacate the bench in the Jett-White trial, and favored the removal of the cases to another county. In replying to criticism from Republican papers at home and abroad, the Governor draws a contrast between their attitude at the time of Gov. Goebel's assassination and at present, and asserts that Democratic papers are unanimous in condemning the killing of Marcum and are not raising subscriptions to defend his assassins. He compares his pardon record with that of Gov. Bradley, and reminds his critics of the disorders in Clay county during Gov. Bradley's term. He states that he has been careful in issuing pardons, and that, while he may have made a few mistakes, he is willing to stand by the record.

UNUSUAL GROUNDS.—At Lexington, Mrs. Ella M. Barber filed suit against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company for $5,000 damages. She alleges that she was insulted by male passengers on one of the company's trains while riding from Louisville to Lexington on Sunday, April 23 last. She alleges that she was the only lady in the coach, and that while going through a tunnel the men smacked their lips as if kissing some one, calling to one another up and down the car, "Quit your kissing, will you?" and made other remarks to her shame and mortification.

Sunday School Convention.

The County Sunday School Convention was held at North Middletown, Friday, June 26. It was quite an interesting meeting and the program was very instructive. The majority of the Sunday schools in the county were represented, but the attendance was not as large as desired, owing to the busy season and threatening weather. The delegates will ever remember the hospitality shown them by the good people of North Middletown. The convention adjourned to meet in Millersburg next year, some time in June.

The Committee on Resolutions beg leave to submit the following:

Resolved, That we appreciate the presence and help of E. A. Fox, Secretary of General State Sunday School work, and of Miss Frazer, State Superintendent of Primary Work.

That we recognize the value of this inter-denominational work in the interest of the Sunday Schools of our State, and urge our people to rally to its support.

That the gratitude of the convention be expressed to Rev. J. C. Clark, County Chairman, and to all others who have contributed to the success of this meeting.

That the most sincere thanks be extended to the people of North Middletown and vicinity for the abundant hospitality shown in their entertainment of the delegates to this convention.

Miss Olivia Buckner to Wed Yutaka Minakuchi.

As the bride of Yutaka Minakuchi, one of Kentucky's belles will be borne away across the blue Pacific to the tea gardens and rice fields of quaint Japan. An American girl of wealth, rare beauty and accomplishments, will bid adieu to a reign among Blue Grass belles and beaux to go far across the water, where jinnicks, men, sandaled, and straw-clad, replace the fast lythe trolley, and where tea gardens and buddhis temples line the roads instead of tobacco barns and little red brick churches.

But this does not mean that Miss Olivia Buckner is going to live in a new religion, as well as a new environment, for her husband-to-be is a minister of the gospel, although he is a wealthy Japanese of partly royal blood. Yutaka Minakuchi needs only the title of Ph. D. to make him satisfied with his studies in America, and he is going to get that at Harvard after his honeymoon trip. Then he and his fair-skinned bride are going to visit Japan and give the Oriental girls something to gossip about behind their fans, just as the young bloods around Lexington and Paris, Ky., are now discussing the success of their Japanese rival.

Yutaka Minakuchi has been a student at Kentucky University for the last three years and graduated with high honors. He has traveled extensively and before coming to this country to enter college he spent two years at St. Petersburg with his uncle, who was Japanese minister to Russia. He speaks fluently in five languages, but most effectively, it seems, the language of love.

Miss Buckner is a member of one of the oldest and wealthiest families in Kentucky, and resides at Cane Ridge, Bourbon county, with her brother and widowed mother on a fine Blue Grass farm. She first met Minakuchi during the Christmas holidays last winter, at church. The minister of the Cane Ridge Christian church is Rev. Brooks, who was a student at Kentucky University, and the Japanese was his guest. Miss Buckner and her mother were introduced to Minakuchi and hospitably invited him to dinner.

The Japanese eagerly accepted, for the young couple acknowledge that with them it was love at first sight. The Japanese made a wonderful impression at his first visit. His intelligence, his tact, his stories of his culture, all appealed to his hostess and her daughter, and the fact that he is a convert to Christianity, and is going to preach, made a deep impression. Since their first meeting the young Japanese and the Kentucky belle have spent a great deal of time in each other's company. Mrs. Buckner made no objection to her daughter's choice for a husband. She considers him a polished gentleman, and one that is fully worthy of woman.

The wedding of Japanese and Kentucky aristocracy will take place on July 9, at the home of Mrs. Buckner. Many will attend from Paris and Lexington, where the parties are very popular. The couple will travel all summer. After study at Harvard, in the fall, the trip to Japan will be taken. It is thought that Yutaka Minakuchi and his bride after travel in the Orient, will finally return to this country to live. [Cincinnati Post, June 29.]

Stone Give Out.

Numerous exaggerated reports have been printed in regard to trouble between Mr. Gibson, the contractor building our court house, and the Fiscal Court. The facts are these: Mr. G. O. Minter, Superintendent appointed by the Fiscal Court, discovered that stone four inches in thickness was being used instead of eight inch stone for the layer above the water table. After being notified by Mr. Minter and a thorough examination of the plans made, Mr. Gibson saw his error and rectified it.

The reason for work being stopped is on account of running out of stone. There has been a strike in the Bedford, Ind., quarry and a wash out on railroad that leads to quarry in South Carolina is the reason for not having the stone on hand so we are informed by Judge Smith and Mr. Minter. Mr. Gibson is now at the Bedford quarry trying to get his stone out.

NEW ENGINES.—The L. and N. will get the first installment of the 75 locomotives it ordered some time ago from the Baldwin Locomotive Works. The new engines are of heavy type and are strictly up-to-date machines.

THE INTERURBAN.—The Blue Grass Traction Co. has purchased the property of Mr. Thomas Owsley, on corner of Main and Fourteenth streets, for $3,000. The property was bought for the purpose of affording a wide turn at that corner. The plans of the company have been changed and they will come down High instead of Main street. Rails have been laid on the entire line outside of Paris, and workmen are now stringing trolley wire.

IMPROVEMENT.—The ladies of the Second Presbyterian church have made a great improvement in the church by lowering and enlarging the pulpit platform and by an empaneled oak inclosure around the choir platform. The panels are the same color as the organ and is four and a half feet high.

ALFALFA AS MEDICINE.

Southwestern Stockman Says That It Is the Best Remedy for Hog Cholera Yet Discovered.

A few years ago farmers were almost afraid to raise hogs on account of the prevalence of cholera. Once that disease got a start in a herd it generally succeeded in practically destroying it. Not only the aged stock, writes W. S. McAuley in Southwest Stockman, but the pigs as well were affected. Hog cholera remedies were sometimes used to good advantage, then again they proved to be ineffectual in stopping the ravages of the plague. Since the farmers have taken to growing alfalfa extensively as a field forage plant for hogs, however, the situation is changed. Now hog cholera in our part of the state is rare and the loss of swine by the disease has been reduced by more than 50 per cent. Farmers everywhere attribute the change to that wonderful plant, alfalfa, and I sincerely believe that is what worked the transformation.

The difference in the health of hogs that have been pastured on alfalfa and those that have been kept in feed lots and fed grain and dry feeds is pronounced, and particularly so with regard to young pigs. Sucklings that have alfalfa fed mothers are far more rugged and healthy than are those that trace their ancestral dam to the pig sty. Sows that forage on alfalfa raise lusty, hearty pigs that seldom fall victims to cholera, while the mothers that are kept on other feeds and not permitted the freedom of the alfalfa fields are generally inclined to be sickly. Kansas has made great strides in growing alfalfa the past two or three years and I think you will find those sections of the state that raise the greatest quantities of that plant are turning out the cleanest hogs and complain less of the prevalence of cholera.

If there is anything that will solve the great question of hog cholera, one that has troubled farmers since the beginning of all time, it in my estimation is alfalfa. The time will come, I believe, when every hog feeder and grower will plant many acres of alfalfa each year for no other purpose than grazing hogs. I do not expect to see the millenium approach, but when the universal alfalfa time rolls around, I should not be surprised to find hog cholera put on the shelf as a back number, while the swine of that day do not know what sickness is.

COTTONSEED MEAL.

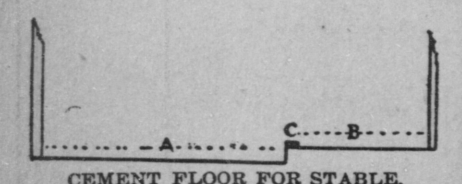

It Is a Food Stuff Rich in Protein and Can Be Used to Advantage for Pigs.

A bulletin of the Oklahoma station says: Protein, the nitrogenous part of the feed, is the most important constituent in it. Many of the common feeds on the farm, as corn, kafir corn, etc., do not contain this ingredient in sufficient amount for the best results in feeding. A feed is generally valuable in proportion to the amount of protein it contains. Cottonseed meal is one of the very richest feeds in protein and it is a very cheap source of this valuable food ingredient. In cattle feeding, cottonseed meal is used quite extensively and with the best results where certain precautions are followed. It has been used only to a limited extent in pig feeding, as fatal results have followed as a rule in the general way of feeding it. After feeding on it from four to six weeks the pigs would commence dying, and this has usually been the case when even small amounts of the cottonseed meal have been fed along with other grain. The writer has found a mixture of one-fifth cottonseed meal and four-fifths corn or kafir meal to give most excellent results when fed to pigs, and with very few exceptions no pigs have died, if the cottonseed meal was not continued longer than four weeks. Later experiments at this station indicate that there are several conditions under which pigs may be fed a small amount of cottonseed meal with other grain for an indefinite time without injuring the pigs in any way, and good gains obtained with a small amount of grain. One of the conditions is where the shoats have access to plenty of range and green feed. Again, if the cottonseed meal is dropped after feeding three or four weeks and after a lapse of two or three weeks added to the feed again for three or four weeks, and dropped again for a few weeks, and so on until the pigs are grown or fattened, good gains will be obtained with practically no loss of pigs.

THE CAUSE OF EDUCATION.

Prof. Henry S. Graves, director of the Yale school of forestry, has gone abroad for the purpose of making special studies of the methods of scientific forestry on the continent. He will visit the forestry schools and museums in Germany, Austria, Hungary and France.

Henry Walters has given to the division of ethnology of the Woman's College Museum at Baltimore a portfolio of thirty-one sketches of the Sioux Indians made by the late Frank B. Mayer, of Annapolis, who was one of a party sent by the government in 1851 to make a treaty with that tribe.

Roanoke college at Salem, Va., which has had more foreign students than any other college in the south, will this year graduate the second Korean to take the degree of bachelor of arts anywhere in the world, the first being Kin Beung Surh, who received his A. B. at Roanoke in 1898 and his A. M. at Princeton in 1899. Kinsie Kimm, who will be graduated this year, is so good a speaker that he won a prize in declamation several years ago.

Booker T. Washington was much overcome when he heard of Carnegie's gift of $600,000 to the Tuskegee institute. The millionaire's letter requests that "the modern emancipator" be relieved of further pecuniary cares. It also declares that Mr. Washington is a second Moses, leading his people to a better condition. "Maybe," said the recipient of the compliment, "but I'll differ from my predecessor in this—I'll not burden my people with another set of commandments. The original ten will suffice."

ODDS AND ENDS.

Gen. John B. Sanborn, of St. Paul, has been elected president of the Minnesota Historical society to succeed the late Gov. Alexander Ramsey. Gen. Sanborn has been a resident of the state since the early '50s.

Joseph H. Perkins, the veteran coin collector and relic hunter of Syracuse, N. Y., will publish a work of eight volumes, containing the biographies of nearly 50,000 centenarians and photographs of 600. He has been collecting them all his life. He says that there are at present 4,000 centenarians in the United States. The oldest man in the world, he says, is Manuel del Valle, a Mexican living near San Francisco, who is 157. All parts of the world are included in this collection.

Sioux City is much wrought up over a squabble now going on between the principal shoe dealer of the city and the wholesale grocers. To boom his trade the shoe dealer decided to have a coffee sale, and he advertised large quantities of the berry at five cents a pound. After a few days the wholesalers refused to sell to him, and he bought of the retailers. Now the wholesalers have gone into court to ask for an injunction to prevent him from selling a coffee for less than the market prices.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Phonograph cylinders which reproduce the pope's "solemn papal benediction" are being advertised for sale in Paris at $2 each.

It is stated that the Presbyterian board of foreign mission is hampered in its plans for the coming year more by lack of men than of money. It has appointed 47 missionaries and has as yet work and means for 34 more.

Bishop Alexander Le Roy, who founded a chain of Christian villages reaching almost across the continent of Africa, has come to the United States for the purpose of studying the negro problem as it is presented here.

The Jesuit, Peter Zottoli, who died at Shanghai at the age of 76, was a leading authority on the Chinese language and literature. For many years he had been at work on a dictionary, which, completed, will comprise 10 or 12 volumes.

The recent report of the American Bible society's agency in Mexico shows a working force at present of 256 Mexican preachers, 350 Sunday schools and 10,000 scholars, and a church membership of nearly 17,000 communicants and 50,000 adherents.

IN ENGLAND'S CAPITAL.

London's water companies supply daily 6,172,326 people.

The houses of parliament at Westminster cover fully nine acres of ground.

A count of the unoccupied houses in London show 40,069. That is one house in 15 of the whole city.

Bedsteads with alarm clocks as part of the headrail are being made for south London early risers.

The Londoner will be greatly annoyed by innovations when the American electrical cars are running in the Metropolitan underground and tunnel tube railways. The fare will be five cents for any distance; there will be no first, second or third class; the high speed will be over 60 miles an hour, and the twenty-second limit to stops will give him a Chicago education in movement.

The latest name added to the chemical nomenclature of Germany is Tetramethylbenzylphenyltriamidodiphenylcarbinolmonosulfosulfates Natron.

Owensboro commandery, Knights Templars, of Owensboro, Ky., conferred the Knight Templar degree on the smallest mason in the United States, W. D. Everly, of Island, Ky., the other night. He is 40 years old and is 39 inches tall.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

The only surviving member of Lord Derby's administration is the duke of Rutland, who is now in his 85th year. As Lord John Manners the duke served two terms as postmaster general. There is a story to the effect that in a country post office the damsel in charge treated Lord John very uncivilly, not being aware, of course, of his identity. When her attitude became unbearable the stranger handed in his card, inscribed "Manners," and the hint was both complete and immediate in its effect.

King Edward's appointment of Sir Evelyn Wood to be a field marshal has brought out the interesting fact that the family of the king was once deeply indebted to the grandfather of Gen. Wood, Matthew Wood, a London merchant. It was through the generosity of the old merchant that the duke of Kent was able to come to England from Germany so that the future Queen Victoria could be born on British soil. The first baronetcy bestowed by Queen Victoria upon her accession was to Matthew Wood.

Sculptor Trentanove's bronze bust of the late Senator Cushman K. Davis has arrived in Washington from Italy. Signor Trentanove is now on his way to this country and will be present at the unveiling of the work which will be placed over the grave of Senator Davis in Arlington. The bust will rest on a base of bronze Italian marble. In the pedestal are chiseled in relief on the four sides the words "Soldier," "Scholar," "Statesman" and "Friend." On one side halfway down is the inscription: "Senator Cushman Kellogg Davis, June 16, 1838—Nov. 27, 1900."

An interesting story is told in connection with the new Chartran portrait of Secretary Shaw. Chartran always charges $6,000 for his pictures, but Mr. Shaw beat him down to $2,500 while the picture was being painted. When it was nearly completed the artist turned to the secretary and asked him who was to pay the $2,500, he or the government. The secretary said that the government was. Quick as a flash Chartran said it was worth $3,000 and swept his brush across one of the eyes in the portrait. Secretary Shaw looked at it aghast. He was winking at himself from the canvas, but he had to pay the $3,000.

The aurora borealis, as lately seen in the early afternoon by an English observer, appeared as a black arch with black streamers, against a blue sky. The sun was shining brightly, and some bright white clouds were being driven rapidly in front of the aurora.

Surgeon Edgar Means, of the army, has given a wonderful collection of rats to the national museum. It is said to be the most complete collection in existence and contains specimens of all known varieties of rats. Surgeon Means has been a lifetime in making his collection.

Coffee berries are understood to contain about one per cent. of caffeine, to which the stimulating properties are due. In a late analysis of nine kinds at the Pasteur institute, M. Bertrand has found that Coffea Canephora contains as much as 1.97 per cent. of caffeine, but that two species—C. Humboldtiana and C. Mauritiana—are practically free from the stimulating alkaloid, not more than 0.07 per cent. appearing in either.

A remarkable sea monster was recently caught in Port Fairly bay by some fishermen. It measured nine feet six inches in length, had a tail like that of the screw tail shark, no teeth, a nose like a rhinoceros, a head like an elephant, two dorsal fins, four side fins and two steering fins. The skin was black and very soft. The most experienced fishermen say the specimen is altogether new to them. They cannot hazard a guess as to the species. The fish has been sent to the Melbourne museum.

Kentucky children and public generally invited to vote to determine the best popular teacher in each county. Votes to be cast on July 1st, 1904. All money over and above trip expenses of teachers to go in a special train to the Kentucky Building at the Exposition. Every voter thus given the satisfaction of knowing a worthy cause and important object have been aided, at the same time a favorite teacher has received recognition. Contest conducted under auspices of Educational Exhibit Committee of Kentucky Exhibit Association on the organization formed to raise $50,000 for a Kentucky Building and full display of the State's products and resources at the Fair, the Legislature having failed to make an appropriation. Every educator in the State, whether in public or private schools, or professor of academy, college or university, medical, dental or theological institution, or member of the Educational Exhibit Association, is eligible to election. Members of the Educational Exhibit Association are exempted.

Names of school children voting to be enrolled in the Kentucky Building at the Exposition. Kentucky will have an educational exhibit occupying 2,000 square feet of space in the Palace of Education. The Exposition is to be held in the great International event in the world's history. The teachers chosen will be lucky indeed in being tendered this trip to the Fair. Every county elects its own most popular educator. The county outside of Jefferson casting the largest number of votes will be allowed to send two teachers—the most popular and the second most popular.

member of faculty of academy, college or university, medical, dental or theological institution, or member of the Educational Exhibit Association, is eligible to election. Members of the Educational Exhibit Association are exempted.

THE VOTES WILL BE TEN CENTS EACH, TEN CONSTITUTING A BALLOT.

At ten cents each every school child in the State will be able to cast at least one vote for his or her favorite teacher. But the voting will not be confined to school children.

PARENTS OF PUPILS OR ANY OF THEM MAY CAST TEN VOTES. The purpose of the Association being to elect the most popular teacher in each county, as to be considered by the public generally, as well as by the school children. Ballots containing ten votes, so that of ten pupils may be arranged and each giving ten cents be credited with his or her vote. If one person desires to cast ten votes, it may be done by writing his or her name on a note of the space and remitting one dollar. It is not required that the name of the person voting be given at all. All of the spaces for voters' names may be left blank. The Association wants, however, to enroll in the Kentucky Building at St. Louis next year the name of every child who can vote or more votes in the contest. Pupils are asked therefore to enroll their names plainly to the ballot.

ALL EXPENSES OF THE TEACHERS WILL BE PAID BY THE ASSOCIATION. This will include railroad transportation from Louisville to St. Louis and return, board at one of the best hotels in the city for six days and admission to the Exposition grounds for six days.

THREE PARTIES WILL BE MADE UP FROM THE TEACHERS TO MAKE THE TRIP. This will be a most profitable and enjoyable one. Each of these parties will consist of five or six teachers. This would make a total of 150 teachers, but as there are only 119 counties in Kentucky, the Association has decided to allow two teachers—the most popular and the second most popular—to go from that county—Jefferson excepted—which casts the greatest number of votes in the contest.

ALL TEACHERS IN THE STATE STAND ON AN EQUAL FOOTING IN THIS CONTEST. The teacher with only twenty pupils may receive more votes than the teacher with five or six times as many enrolled in his or her school, because the voting is not confined to children. The public will be an important factor.

Votes may be cast for any person who taught school during 1902 or is teaching now. This gives the teacher of a five months' school, which closed in November or December, the opportunity to be voted for during the vacation period.

ANY NUMBER OF BALLOTS MAY BE CAST AT ONE TIME. There is no limit. The more dollars sent in for any one teacher the more votes he or she will be credited with.

ONE DOLLAR CASTS TEN VOTES; TWO DOLLARS CASTS TWENTY VOTES; THREE DOLLARS CASTS THIRTY VOTES; FIVE DOLLARS CASTS FIFTY VOTES; TEN DOLLARS CASTS ONE HUNDRED VOTES; FIFTY DOLLARS CASTS FIFTY VOTES; TEN DOLLARS CASTS ONE HUNDRED VOTES; ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS CASTS ONE THOUSAND VOTES.

All of the money received in this contest, over and above that used in defraying expenses of the trip, will be sent to the World's Fair, will go for the benefit of a Kentucky Building at the Exposition, and every voter in this contest may have the additional satisfaction of knowing that he has made a worthy cause.

THE STANDING OF THE TEACHERS WILL BE KNOWN IN EACH COUNTY. The teachers will show his or her friends how the race is being run. Every year now for your favorite school teacher. The votes will be counted under the supervision of the Educational Exhibit Committee of the Association. The personnel of this committee is as follows: Prof. J. G. Brownell, Louisville; Chairman, Prof. H. V. McCaskey, Frankfort; Prof. K. P. Jelliffe, Louisville; Prof. W. H. Ritholmew, Louisville; Prof. F. Paul Anderson, Lexington; Dr. Chase Palmer, Dr. Miller, President William D. Williams, Jackson; Dr. W. G. Frost, Berea; Dr. R. B. Huntton, Louisville; Dr. E. Y. Mullins, Louisville; Dr. Arthur Yager, Georgetown; Superintendent H. A. Cassidy, Lexington; Superintendent S. L. Froese, Frankfort; Prof. C. J. Crabbe, Ashland; Prof. Henry Rhoads, Owensboro; Prof. T. S. Alvey, Bellevue; Prof. C. C. Cherry, Bowling Green; Prof. F. H. Spencer, Louisville; Miss Pattie S. Hill, Louisville; Mrs. Emily E. Bracken, Louisville; and Mrs. M. B. Tucker, Louisville. Members of the Educational Committee are not eligible to election in this contest.

REMEMBER EVERY COUNTY ELECTS ITS OWN FAVORITE TEACHER. Competition between counties only applies to the race for the 12th trip, the county outside of Jefferson, casting the largest total number of votes being granted the distinction of sending two teachers.

The result will be announced in every paper in the state, and, in addition, this a congratulatory message will go to the teacher elected in each county. Later the details of the trip will be arranged, each teacher chosen being given in the privilege of selecting the month—June, July or August, 1904—in which he or she wants to make the trip.

MUST BE REPRESENTED

Great Opportunity Awaits Kentucky at World's Fair.

SPEECH OF PRESIDENT A. Y. FORD.

Tells Delegates to State Commercial Convention Why This Commonwealth of All Others Should Answer to the Roll-Call of States at the Exposition.

No one speaks more eloquently on the development of Kentucky's products and resources than does Mr. A. Y. Ford, the President of the Kentucky Exhibit Association. Since his election to the place at the head of the organization which was formed to raise a fund for Kentucky's representation at the World's Fair in St. Louis next year—purely a labor of love with him, for it must be remembered there are no salaried commissioners—Mr. Ford has made many speeches along this line. The latest of these was delivered at the State Commercial Convention recently held in Louisville. It is our pleasure today to present the greater part of it to our readers, as follows:

The movement for a creditable representation of Kentucky at the great World's Fair, which is to mark the Centenary of the Purchase of the Louisiana Territory, appeals both to business interest and to patriotic sentiment.

It appeals to business interests, because no community more than Kentucky needs to have itself properly advertised to the world, not only for the correction of that false reputation which it has been brought by persistent and long-continued misrepresentation, but because, at this particular juncture in the material development of the country, it finds an unusual opportunity and a pressing necessity to demonstrate to the world of capital and of homeseekers the superior advantages which it offers as an undeveloped State, in which all the essentials of profitable development are to be found.

It appeals to sentiment, because the Kentuckian's characteristic pride in the achievements of the founders of the Commonwealth can find in all the long, illustrious story nothing more fit to inspire it than the part which the men of this State have played in that marvelous national drama of expansion, of which the Louisiana Purchase forms a part. How could Kentucky forego her claim to a share in the glories of a region at whose birth into the Union she stood sponsor, created a part of this household of liberty through her instrumentality, peopled largely by her sons, bound to her by the tenderest ties of blood and interest—all in all one of the very richest of the jewels in her crown of Statehood.

A. Y. FORD,
President of the Kentucky Exhibit Association.

But perhaps it is more in keeping with the spirit of an occasion like this to put sentiment to the rear and business considerations to the fore. We hold that Kentucky should be at the Louisville Purchase Exposition.

Because it has suffered incalculable injury from malicious misrepresentation; because it needs to be advertised to the world by something else besides its mountain feuds and its bitter politics;

Because it has been caricatured too long in the general mind of fact and it deserves to be taken seriously. We like a joke all right, but we don't want it rubbed in too hard;

Because it is an undeveloped State, needing the good-will of investors and homeseekers and having that to offer them that will endure and repay investigation; because now is the time of times for putting ourselves right and keeping ourselves right before the business world, while this tremendous tide of material development is at its flood and men are seeking on every hand for profitable fields of activity;

Because, through ignorance of our own resources or indifference to them, through lack of enterprise in presenting information about them to those who seek it, we have suffered ourselves to be outstripped as an industrial community by States that could not compare with us in natural advantages.

I know of no State that stands more in need of a protest in the name of truth than Kentucky. I know of no State that has been more persistently and unjustly maligned than Kentucky. I know of no State that has more supinely endured such misrepresentation, recklessly giving fresh occasion for it and careless of its opportunities for displaying its better side.

I am not an apologist for that which is wrong with us, and there is much in present conditions for which we should frankly take shame to ourselves, but the very existence of such things but emphasizes the necessity that we should be up and doing in the cause of our own redemption, to the end that these early glories of the State of which we boast so much may not be dimmed and derided or its future hampered by our duty. No community more than an individual should be oversensitive to just criticism, but unchecked misrepresentation, long enough continued, makes reputation and it has made for us a reputation that has formed a barrier to the proper development of the State. It is a thing to be denied and rebuked with earnestness and dignity at every opportunity, not only as a matter of State pride but as a matter of State welfare.

In all the long roll-call of States not one important State will be missing, not one that can lay any claim to rank as an enterprising Commonwealth. Not one whose growth in wealth and population attests its energy and progressive spirit.

There will be aligned the States that stand for progress, for enlightenment, for education, for leadership.

Shall Kentucky eliminate herself from such a company and say to the world that we not only repudiate the work our fathers did in the cause of national expansion, but that we do not care to be ranked among the enterprising States, that we are wedded to our idols and only want the busy world to stand out of our sunlight and let us alone with our mountain feuds, our political quarrels, our undeveloped wealth? That we don't want to be disturbed by the screech of factory whistles, that we don't want locomotives scaring our horses; that we don't want factories spreading soot over the landscape; that we'll keep our coal and our iron and our lead and zinc and our fluor spar where they are, for we don't want unlighted holes dug in the ground? What do we care if men with money to invest pass us by for more hospitable States? What do we want with new population? It might complicate the political situation. What need have we for electric traction lines? We've got one or two and the old carry-all will do for a while longer with a new spoke or two and an extra wrap on the shaft, when the roads are not too bad.

Work to Be Done.

Men of Kentucky, that is the verdict that our indifference to this opportunity would both invite and justify, and it is a verdict that would belie the State and its people. We have a few mossbacks yet, for I doubt not there were even then bushes in the Garden of Eden. We have people left who are comfortable only when jogging along in the well-worn ruts.

A reasonable State pride is well enough, but a State pride that does not express itself in emulative deeds is a hybrid thing, gaining nothing but ridicule, and I fear that with some of our good people State pride has ossified into mere self-complacency, with the conviction that whatever is all right and that any suggestion of improvement is a suggestion of disloyalty.

And yet there is work to be done. For Kentucky is an undeveloped State with rich resources, and whatever stands in the way of the development of those resources—whether it be unwise laws, whether it be our own ignorance of these resources, or whether it be indifference at home and ignorance and misconception abroad—must be swept aside.

With the largest known area of coking coal in the world, we produce only four-tenths of one per cent. of all the coke produced in the United States and, though we are now rapidly increasing our product, we yet rank only ninth as a coke producer, being in this respect out-ranked even by Massachusetts, which has no coking coal at all, but must bring it all from Nova Scotia.

With practically the same coal area as West Virginia, we mine annually only one-fourth as much coal. With twice the coal area of Alabama, we mine annually only one-half as much coal.

With splendid timber at our very doors, we send it North to be made into furniture and other articles and be shipped back to us.

With a splendid stock raising country about us, the annual product of our butchering and meat packing establishments is little more than one-tenth that of Indiana.

With vast fields of natural oil, we are only just beginning to develop them and have as yet not a single petroleum refinery in the State.

With a large part of our State so thickly populated as to invite the construction of interurban traction lines, we have only three such lines in operation, with a total of less than 40 miles of track, while our neighboring State of Indiana is already a network of interurban lines.

With twenty-eight counties wholly untouched by steam railways and others that are barely skirted by them, we built only 132 miles of railway from 1890 to 1900 and in 1901 only 33 miles, though the total new construction in the South in the decade was 1,330 miles, and in the United States 4,453 miles.

With vast deposits of iron ore, we have declined as a producer of pig iron, and in 1901 produced only a pitiful 28,000 tons, against Alabama's more than 1,200,000 tons. Yet twenty-five years ago the pig iron production of the two States was about equal.

In iron and steel manufactures, though our actual output has increased, our rank among the States has declined from seventh in 1870 to eleventh in 1880 and thirteenth in 1900, though we have improved our rank in the past ten years, having stood only sixteenth in 1890. In spite of the natural resources and advantages that should make us a great iron and steel State, we are out-ranked by such States as Maryland, Indiana and New Jersey, which can not compare with us in such advantages.

With vast deposits of the finest clays, whose value is becoming known to the trade and which we are at last, especially in Eastern Kentucky, beginning to appreciate and to develop, we still rank no better than fourteenth as a producer of clay products. Our improvement is shown by the fact that we ranked only twenty-second in 1890.

After having been all this time in ignorance of the fact that we had valuable deposits of lead and zinc and fluor spar, we are just beginning the profitable development of these deposits—material that the commercial world needs and will pay a good price for.

With all the facilities and advantages that invite profitable manufacturing we have only within the past few years begun to make real progress as a manufacturing State. In all the essentials of abundant and accessible raw materials, cheap and inexhaustible fuel, splendid transportation facilities, nearness to great markets, being within a short distance of the center of population, cheap and intelligent labor, and favorable climate, we yet rank only eighteenth as a manufacturing State.

A Glorious Opportunity.

I cite these facts in no spirit of deprecation, but in support of my statement that Kentucky is an undeveloped State. I cite them in no spirit of discouragement, but rather to indicate the splendid field in which we have to labor and the possible results that wait only upon our will. I cite them in no spirit of disloyalty to the State we love, but rather because I would see it make greater haste toward that goal of material prosperity that is so easily within its reach.

I do not believe that I overestimate either the value of this Exposition as a place for exploiting our State, or the necessity of this advertising it. In this I am vindicated by the judgment of many Kentucky firms, which will spend thousands of dollars upon exhibits to advertise their own enterprise. I am vindicated also by the fact that every civilized nation on earth is preparing to be represented and that Florida seems likely to be the only one of all our own States and territories that is not alive to the opportunity. You will observe that I am counting Kentucky in the list of progressives, for Kentucky must be there. It is to be the largest World's Fair yet attempted, covering nearly twice the area of the Chicago World's Fair, and backed by nearly $20,000,000 of capital. Conditions lay upon Kentucky the most urgent injunction to make the most of the opportunity here afforded to put before the world her invitation to those men of brain and brawn and capital who build up the industries of a great State.

It is the purpose of the Kentucky Exhibit Association to extend that invitation in a practical way—to demonstrate by striking displays and by every possible means of information the commercial value of Kentucky's resources and its advantages as a location for commercial and industrial enterprises.

TALES TOLD OF MEN.

When Thomas Dixon, Jr., in a recent speech in Cleveland referred to his anticipation of a race war in this country and ventured the prediction that the Anglo-Saxon would sweep the negro off the face of this continent a level-headed old dandy in the audience remarked: "Not entirely, doctor, not entirely. You'll want a few negroes left to do the sweeping."

Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, is very fond of a joke in spite of his multifarious duties finds time for many amusing quips. When Bishop Spalding, of Peoria, visited the archbishop some time ago it was arranged that the western man should be entertained by a lady prominent in social and charitable affairs. The archbishop wrote him, giving some details regarding his prospective hostess, and ended his letter thus: "The lady who has all these virtues treats her husband like a brute. P. S.—She is very fond of brutes, being an officer of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

George Francis Train sat one spring morning in Union square, New York, as was his custom, surrounded by children, to whom, contrary to his attitude toward adults, he was always affable and agreeable. On the outside of the group surrounding Mr. Train stood a small colored girl looking wistfully at the white children who were receiving all his attention and hearing his wonderful tales. After they had dispersed and Mr. Train was alone the black girl advanced timidly and said to him: "Do you love children?"

Looking at his questioner in some surprise, Mr. Train admitted that he did. Then in a low voice she said: "I am a child."

At La Plata, Mo., the other day, Cole Younger did something original, especially for a showman and an exhibitor. A patron of his wild west show told Younger that he had been short changed out of five dollars by an employee of the show. He pointed out the man and Younger went to the employee and said: "Give this man his money back." "What money?" asked the man, feigning surprise. "Did you hear me?" returned Cole. "Give this man his money." The employee commenced to explain. "I don't want any explanations," said his employer, "pass that money over and pass it over quick." The money was handed over and the dishonest employee discharged then and there. Frank James, who stood by, approved the action of his partner.

THE LAW DECLARED.

Forbidding the employment of females in certain establishments more than ten hours a day is held, in state vs. Buchanan (Wash.), 59 L. R. A. 342, not to deprive them, unconstitutionally of life, liberty or property.

Ovens, engine boilers and shafting placed by a tenant in a leased building for carrying on the bakery business with the intention of removing them, are held, in Baker vs. McClurg (Ill.), 59 L. R. A. 431, to be removable as trade fixtures.

The right of a riparian owner to use a navigable stream for floating logs is held, in Hutton vs. Webb (N. C.), 59 L. R. A. 33, not to be derived from the state; and it is held that he cannot be deprived of such right without just compensation.

Confining the right to act as agent for foreign insurance companies to residents of the state is held, in Cook vs. Howland (Vt.), 59 L. R. A. 338, not to be an unconstitutional impairment of the privileges and immunities of citizens of other states.

A judgment of divorce rendered in a state in which the wife has acquired a separate domicile, and valid there, is declared, in succession of Benton (La.), 59 L. R. A. 135, to be valid in other jurisdictions. With this case is an extensive note reviewing the authorities on conflict of laws on the subject of divorce.

A street car passenger who is ejected from a car to which he is transferred because of a mistake not noticed by him in the transfer slip given him by the conductor to whom he paid his fare is held, in Lawshe vs. Tacoma R. & P. Co. (Wash.), 59 L. R. A. 350, to be entitled to recover substantial damage from the company.

IN THE ANIMAL KINGDOM.

The salmon can, for short distances, travel at 25 miles an hour; the swiftest of marine creatures are those of the whale family.

Mosquitoes are known to live through the winter, awakening with the first warmth. A late investigation by Mr. John B. Smith proves that certain species hibernate in the adult state, others in the larval state, also others only in the larval state, and some in the egg. Many larvae survive repeated freezing and thawing.

A scientist once put an automatic music-box on the lawn and spent many hours watching the robins, blue tits and other birds gathering about it. A looking-glass put up where the birds can see themselves in it is also very attractive, while a combination of a musical box and a looking-glass pleases the birds more than anything else one could put out for their amusement.

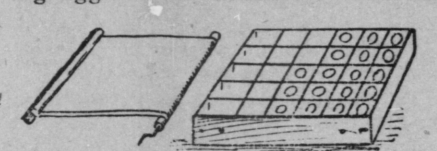

The gradual disappearance of locusts in Rhodesia and other parts of South Africa is attributed by Mr. J. M. Orpen, a writer on the agriculture of the region, to a rapidly growing mold. The invisible seeds are scattered by the wind, and in favorable weather the growth attacks and destroys vast swarms of the insects. Since its discovery during the last locust invasion, the mold has been regularly distributed by the department of agriculture. The disease thus artificially spread has been very effective, but dryness has caused some failures.

EGGS FOR HATCHING.

Combination Drawer and Turner Which Is Within the Reach of Every Poultryman.

When keeping eggs for hatching most breeders turn them every day or two with the idea of keeping the germ from sticking to the shell or becoming inert. The illustration shows a combination egg drawer and turner which has been successfully adapted from an old device for turning eggs in an incubator. The bottom of the drawer to be made over is removed and a roller fixed at each end. The rear roller is covered with a good-sized roll of cloth which the front roller unwinds with the aid of the crank attached, as shown.

DEVICE FOR TURNING EGGS.

The partitions may be taken from an old egg case or made to fit. Unwinding the roll a very short distance jostles every egg and turns it sufficiently. It is possible, however, that too much emphasis is usually placed on the need of turning eggs. I have had as good success with eggs kept a month without turning and without moving more than once or twice, as with eggs turned every day.—Orange Judd Farmer.

NOTES FOR BEEKEEPERS.

A German journal tells of a horse that was cured of a severe attack of rheumatism after being badly stung by bees.

Italian bees are the best workers, and they are also the worst robbers, if once they ever make a commencement in robbery.

It is estimated that to equal one pound of honey from clover, 62,000 heads of clover must be deprived of nectar, and 3,500,000 visits from bees must be made.

The "worst" thing you can do with your honey is to send it to a commission merchant who has no trade for it, and will sacrifice the honey just to get rid of it.

A Swiss bee journal asserts that a colony having 11 frames of brood increased in weight from May 2 to May 6 33 pounds; another of nine frames increased only half as much.

It is well to introduce an Italian queen in all cross-bred colonies after the second year, or requeen an apiary with Italians every third or fourth year if black bees are plenty in the vicinity.

A Belgian bee writer says that a number of drones and workers freshly killed were laid at the entrance of a hive at night. Nightingales came and ate the drones, but did not touch the workers. Is it not possible that some other birds make the same distinction?

Prof. G. DeBunge, a German scientist, says that, among the hydrates of carbon which serve as food, honey holds an exceptional place. Of all the sugary matters, honey is the only one containing iron, and, strangely enough, almost exactly in the same proportion as is found in white bread.—Midland Farmer.

Salt in Poultry Food.

Many people labor under the mistaken impression that no salt should ever be put into poultry food, simply because highly salted food, such as salt fish or old pickled meat, always kills chickens. As a matter of fact, no living thing can get along entirely without salt. Chickens can always get salt in summer by eating grass, which absorbs a certain amount from the soil. But in winter it is different. During cold weather all prepared chicken foods, such as mushes and boiled vegetable mashies, should be salted in about the same proportion as for human food. If this is done, the poultry will be both healthier and more productive.—Prairie Farmer.

Fowls Must Have Exercise.

A man confined in jail with little exercise soon loses the rosy hue of health, loses appetite, becomes pale and before long the sheriff telephones the county physician, for something must be done, or the man will die. Fowls confined in a little jail of a yard, hard tramped and impervious to insects, will, for lack of needed exercise, lose appetite, fail in flesh, suffer from indigestion and become generally of "no account" for eggs or anything else. Exercise is necessary to the well being of all locomotive animals. Clams and oysters can do very well without it, but fowls cannot.

To Hold Your Egg Market.

When once a poultryman gets a reputation for selling eggs that are guaranteed to be good, there is no more trouble for him to hold his orders. Each year the writer is adding to his business of supplying families with table eggs, and the secret of that increase in business is due to the fact that we date each egg as we take it from the nest, and always give the customers the freshest eggs we have on hand. The result is that we have such a demand for eggs that we seldom have an egg on hand that is over three days old.—Farm, Garden and Poultry.

Wanted.

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower, for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Liver Trouble that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual costiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. W. T. Brooks.
